MATTAPOISETT POST OFFICE

It was a hot day when the formal dedication of the new Mattapoisett Post Office held its ceremonies. Of the thousands who might have attended, because of the heat many didn't.

This address, delivered by the chairman of the Selectmen, Lester H. Crampton, compiled by a dozen or more town officers, past and present postmasters and prominent citizens, was an outstanding bit of history which many readers will find informative and interesting.

A HISTORY OF THE MAIL SERVICE IN MATTAPOISETT, MASSACHUSETTS

To begin this history of the mail service in the Town of Mattapoisett, whose 100th anniversary of its incorporation its citizens are commemorating this week, we are always mindful of the fact that whatever mail services were offered to the people of Mattapoisett Village must, of itself included such services offered to the inhabitants of old Rochester, our mother town.

Prior to 1805, the residents of Mattapoisett were obliged to travel to New Bedford to pick up whatever letters there might have been addressed to the people of Mattapoisett Village. The first newspaper to be published in the City of New Bedford was called the "Medley". It was in this newspaper that was published a list of names of people in Rochester who had letters waiting for them in New Bedford. We can rightly assume these people of Rochester who were fortunate enough to have mail waiting for them in New Bedford were forced to make their own arrangements to pick up this mail.

Picking up this mail or making the necessary arrangements for its securement must have been, of itself, a tedious and bothersome task to the tradesman and shipbuilders of Mattapoisett Village. I can just picture the complaints and grumblings which arose as to the method of mail service. As a result of these complaints or what have you, the mail authorities started the first delivery of mail to Mattapoisett Village in 1805.

A horseman left once a week, the day being Friday, Rochester Center with his mail pouch slung over his horse, making his way over the old road, along King Phillips Road to the present house owned by Mr. Anthony Sylvia, known as the John Jenney House, at the present three corners in Hammondtown. It must be remembered the Hammondtown section of Mattapoisett was the center of activities in the early 1800's. Picking up whatever mail there had to be forwarded and leaving the mail addressed to the inhabitants of Mattapoisett Village, he then continued his journey to New Bedford. After having his lunch and picking up whatever mail there might have been for Mattapoisett, he then continued the return trip to Mattapoisett and Rochester.

With the center of shipbuilding activities along the waterfront creating a newer and larger village than Hammondtown, there was established the first postoffice in Mattapoisett Village in a building located on Water Street, which building is not definitely known by this speaker. Its first postmaster was Mr. Benjamin Barstow who served in this capacity for many years.

After the Great County House fire in 1855, the present building, now owned by Mr. Romeo Bedard and used as his establishment for business, was moved from the rear of the house now owned and occupied by Chief of Police Alden S. Kinney on North Street to its present location. This was the second post office in Mattapoisett and we also find that it was the office of Dr. William Sparrow.

Dr. William Sparrow became the next postmaster around 1868 upon his return from Federal service in the Civil War. He served the people of Mattapoisett in the dual capacity as postmaster and healer of the sick for the next 25 years resigning on February 20, 1893.

Since the year 1893 was in the term of President Grover Cleveland we find Mr. Abner Harlow serving his first term as postmaster. Needless to say at this time, Mr. Harlow was a good Democrat. Mr. Harlow served as postmaster until October 1900 and it was during his term of office that the location of the post office was changed to the corner of Mechanic and Water Streets which building is the present home of Mrs. Catherine Frizzell.
